A DRY GODOWN for reception of stores of vessels requiring to discharge them.

Good Quarters for Officers of ships under repair in the DOCK.
tf 2958 Amoy, 16th December, 1867.

NOTICE.

THE Undersigned call the attention of Masters and Agents of vessels discharging at this port to the great advantage to be gained in point of convenience, despatch, and economy, by making use of their Wharves at New Harbour.

With the assistance of steam cranes, a general cargo can be landed easily in a few days—or in about one fifth of the time usually occupied discharging in the roads.

There are large, dry, and very commodious brick godowns on the wharves, which vessels have free use of for cargo while discharging.

The trouble and disputes with, and pilfering of cargo common among boatmen, are avoided by vessels using the wharves.

Cartage of cargo to the town (which is within easy distance) is guaranteed to be not more than lighterage from the roads, and the coolie hire discharging alongside is less.

There is always a large stock of the best English and Welsh coals on the premises, which are supplied to steamers at the lowest market price, and vessels going alongside to take in or discharge coals pay no wharfage.

Vessels discharging cargo pay a wharfage of 20 cents per ton—a trifling charge when the immense advantages gained are taken into consideration.

Arrangements have been made by which all repairs to ships or steamers can be done with despatch while the vessels are lying alongside the wharves.

There is an efficient European pilot on the premises, and, when required, a steam tug is always available.

PORT OF AMOY.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

THE BUOYS marking the dangers in the harbour of Amoy have been painted according to the rule in use by the British Admiralty and Trinity Board, viz:—to mark the STARBOARD side of Channels ENTERING by black or red buoys only, the PORT side of Channels ENTERING by black or red buoys chequered, or vertically striped with white, and MIDDLE Grounds by horizontally striped buoys.

KELLETSPIT, North end, formerly marked by a striped buoy, is now marked by a RED BUOY.

COKER ROCKS, formerly marked by a red buoy, are now marked by a vertically striped RED and WHITE BUOY. This buoy has been placed about 20 Fathoms to the E. S. E. of the shoalest patch, in order to guard vessels against ledges of rock, with 15 feet water, found to exist in that direction, and it may be passed close to on the Port Hand when entering the harbour. The shoalest patch, or pinnacle of the Coker Rocks, has a floating beacon on it until further notice.

NEW ROCK, in North part of Harbour, and BROWN'S ROCK are marked by horizontally striped BUOYS.

In case any of these Buoys are lost or moved, the position will as soon as possible be marked by a flag-boat or floating beacon.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, OCTOBER 31st, 1868.

IF there is one Government official who more than another endeavours, as a rule, to accommodate the public, that Government official is the Postmaster-General. Of course, there have been occasions when the public has considered itself hardly dealt with by the official in question, and would have liked to have pulled his ears or given him a wigging, for his interference with its little arrangements about the transmission of letters by private hand, or for his determination to have the rules of his office strictly and impartially carried out. It is just possible that on these exceptional occasions, the Postmaster-General has thought himself very shockingly ill-treated by the Public and by the Press, and has almost sworn never to do anything obliging or accommodating again; but these little affairs have blown over without any very serious consequences, and all, we think, will admit that, as a rule, the Post-office is the best conducted department in the Government service, and its head the most obliging and attentive to the public.

Marine sorting is now an established fact, and we get our letters within an hour after the entrance into the harbour of the mail steamer from Europe. It is needless now for merchants to entrust their letters to private hand for delivery at Shanghai, or to receive their despatches from Japan and the north by the same means. The Post-office is now as quick, if not quicker, and far more sure. We heard of a firm the other day sending back to the Post-office, after the arrival of the mail from Shanghai and the distribution of the letters, to say that there must be more letters for them. They had advices that left no doubt on the point. Where were the letters? Why had they not been delivered? The reply was you have got all your letters; there are no more. In less than hour the firm sent back to apologise and explain, a Clerk coming down had been entrusted with the missing documents, and had only then turned up. How heartily the firm must have blamed the Post-office and all connected with it, during the anxious half hour before the delinquent amateur letter carrier made his appearance, and it is not too much to suppose that they wrote off at once to Shanghai to direct all letters to be forwarded in future through the Post-office.

The Money Order branch is a new feature in the arrangements of the office, for which, we believe, the Postmaster-General himself deserves all the credit. Suggested some years ago in the public Press, he adopted the idea as his own, and has urged it being put in operation year after year till success has crowned his efforts. It was a graceful concession to the wishes of the community so to extend the original plan as to be able, almost from the beginning, to take in the principal outports, and allow of remittances between them, as well as between them and the offices in Great Britain.

Mr. MITCHELL has now in hand some alterations in the external arrangements of the Post office, trifling in themselves, but of importance to the public, in so much as they will make it a much less comfortless piece of business than heretofore to post letters and buy stamps. The windows on the South face of the Post-office have been altered, as to render it unnecessary to stoop nearly to the ground in the attempt to give an order to the clerk inside for the stamps required. The pigeon-holes have been enlarged, and are now about breast high, or a little more. The letter boxes have been shifted from the windows to the pilasters between them, some little distance therefore from the stamp issuer, and a ledge of wood, forming a sort of table, has been affixed under the notice board for the use of those who wish to stamp and arrange their letters on the spot. These are little things, but they add something to the stock of human happiness and contentment, and are indications of a desire on the part of the Post-office authorities, not only to do the work of the department well, but also to do it with the least possible amount of inconvenience to the public.

There is only one thing remaining to be done to make the Post-office as perfect as any Colonial institution can be, and to reduce the public to the minimum amount of growling that it is possible for a British public to content itself with, and that is that, instead of having to go or send to the office for our letters, the Post Master General should deliver them to us at our desks, or in our houses, according to the time of day, and that as swiftly and as certainly as we can get them under the present system, or more so, if possible. Until this is accomplished the Post-office has no business to make a profit out of its work. It ought not to charge the public for the conveyance of their letters more than it costs the Department to convey and distribute them. It must therefore either reduce its rates, or increase its services.

The steamers Indore and John Bright, which have lain so long idle in this harbour, yesterday hoisted the "Stars and Stripes" in the place of the English flag. Both steamers have been purchased by Messrs. A. Heard & Co., and have been renamed. The Indore is now the "Ixion"(?), and the John Bright will henceforward be known as the "Venus." It is quite uncertain between what ports the two steamers will run.

Police Intelligence, October 30th.

BEFORE E. W. GOODLAKE, Esq.

For a wonder, the dock this morning presented quite a lively appearance, there being a goodly number of prisoners.

DRUNK.

H. Sulton, of H.M.S. Salamis, was charged with being drunk and disorderly. After the court had waited for some time for the attendance of Constable Jensen, it was understood that Sulton, who was transferred from the Basilisk to the Salamis a few days ago, came on shore and got drunk in the orthodox man-of-war fashion. Luckily for him that there was a quiet constable like Jensen on the beat, for Sulton stole oranges, and refused to pay for them, beat several Chinamen who crossed him, and eventually fell into the hands of the above named Dockyard policemen, when his outrageous conduct was too much even for Jensen's slow idea of things.

Mr. Goodlake imposed a fine of fifty cents, remarking that if the orangeman, whose fruit Sulton had stolen, was present, the punishment would have been much heavier.

VAGRANTS.

A dirty crew of six vagabonds, composed of Malays and Indians, were charged by lukong 25 with being vagrants.

The defendants said they were at the Mosque, where cash was distributed on Thursdays.

Mr. Goodlake said that might be, but the cash was for indigent persons, not regular beggars. However, he would discharge them, as they were getting cash from the Mosque.

AN UNGRATEFUL "PAT."

James Hagerty, of Ireland, seaman unemployed, was charged with being drunk and assaulting a Chinaman. A-yin, barman at the Victoria Tavern, said about a quarter to eight on the previous evening Hagerty came into the Tavern drunk, and after "playing the divil entirely" with everything, finally concluded to go to sleep on the floor. As this arrangement did not suit the idea of A-yin, the man was lifted up with a view of finding him a more suitable resting place. Hagerty, like a "bould bhoy" as he was, proceeded to slap the barman's face in a rather independent manner, which action so enraged the barman, that he immediately handed over the ungrateful Irishman to the myrmidons of the law. Mr. Goodlake discharged him with a caution.

NO FUNDS.

Edward Livingston Strickland, seaman on board the U. S. gun boat Unadilla, was charged with creating a disturbance. A woman of a doubtful character, rejoicing in the name of A-yeong, said the prisoner came to her house, which is especially fitted up to the satisfaction of the Inspector, and desired to remain for an unlimited period. She being a woman of the world, naturally enquired into the state of Strictland's exchequer, but was horrified to find that he had not a cash. Of course, she could not befriend with such a bankrupt character, so she turned him out, and required to the assistance of the police to do that. Her evidence was corroborated by another Chinawoman.

Inspector Grimes said when the prisoner came to the station he was sober, or nearly so.

Mr. Goodlake said it was a disgraceful thing for a seaman to conduct himself in such a way. Strictland must pay a fine $10, or three weeks' imprisonment with hard labour.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

The French seaman, named Lamure, who was remanded on a charge of having brutally assaulted a quartermaster of the Starling, by kicking him in the head, was again brought up.

It may be remembered that Lamure and Cooper were put into a cell at the Central Station together, both being drunk, and while there Lamure committed the assault.

Cooper only came out of the hospital to-day, and certainly looked as if he had received severe punishment, hardly a part of his face being free from scar or mark of some wound.

Inspector Grimes said that Cooper was discharged from Hospital as convalescent, but having been very drunk at the time, could not recognise the prisoner or say anything about the case.

Mr. Goodlake desired to know if any enquiry had been made by the captain or officers of the French ship St. Croix, to which the prisoner belonged.

Inspector Grimes said no enquiry had been made.

Mr. Goodlake then said he must know something about the character of Lamure, and therefore he would remand the case until Monday next, so that some one may come from prisoner's vessel.

ALLEGED BURGLARY.

Nine men, mostly rice pounders, were charged with committing a burglary at the Yee-on hong.

Wan-a-fook, money collector to the hong, which is situated in Hellyar street, recognised two 50 catty bags of iron nails (produced), which belonged to the hong.

Chin-a-tai lives in Hellyar-street, at the Yee-on shop. This morning about half past six he saw one of the prisoners (9th) running along the Praya with two bags of nails in his hand. He chased him, and saw the fellow stopped by a constable. At this time he saw several other bags scattered on the ground, and several men running away, who had thrown them down. When he went to look at the store door on the Praya, he found it open.

P.C. 15, Cunniffy, said about a quarter to seven this morning he saw several men running with bags of nails like the two produced in their hands. He gave chase, when most of the bags were thrown away. He selected the 9th prisoner, and ran him down, eventually collaring him in a rice shop. He recognised the first prisoner also. He examined the store on the Praya, and found the door open. From information afterwards received he went to a coolie house in Queen's-road West, and assisted in arresting eight of the prisoners. They came quietly. The first prisoner covered himself up with a blanket, and ran to the third story when he went into the house.

Inspector Grimes had charge of the party who went to the coolie-house and took the eight men. He was sure that two of them, the first and third prisoners, were old offenders.

At this stage the case was remanded, at Mr. Deane's request, until Wednesday next.

Supreme Court.

NISI PRIUS.

BEFORE CHIEF JUSTICE SMALE.

Landstein v. Carlowitz, ex parte Carlowitz.

This was an application for a rule nisi granting a new trial, which it will be remembered was heard on Wednesday last, and then adjourned in order that time might be given for obtaining additional affidavits.

Mr. Hayllar said he had found it impracticable to obtain any additional affidavits regarding the words used by the Chief Justice.

The Chief Justice said he had already consented to take Mr. Hayllar's own notes, but by doing so, it must not be thought that he affirmed what they said. Defendants were entitled to their rule, but all the grounds must be stated in it, and no others could be afterwards raised at the trial. The rule was granted accordingly. Mr. Hayllar, instructed by Mr. Hazeland, appeared in support of the application.

The Depression of Trade in Hongkong

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

SIR,—If I happen to be a friend of "Bell the Cat," he may justly remark, "spare me from my friend!"

I must beg you to bear in mind that this is an exceptional case; you, for the good of the community, challenged all to argue the question with you, and declared you would maintain certain propositions; you said, too, "we have announced our readiness to defend—we do not attack, we stand on the defensive—our object is to get up a fight, and, like Pat, we are anxious for the sport."

I was wrong in expecting you to argue against an assertion, but you will surely allow that some of the letters you have received have admitted of argument, yet, whilst we were waiting, far more eager than you for the fray, you have allowed these letters, called forth by yourself, to pass without the slightest remark. As regards "Bell the Cat's" letter in question, I freely admit it would have been a troublesome task to do, but do you not think your readers would have been better satisfied, and you would have been acting up to the programme you laid down for yourself at the commencement, had you picked the letter to pieces, and criticised it in the manner you mention.

The silence of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Hongkong Association, I think, is no criterion that they agree with you, the former body almost unanimously protested against the Gambling Ordinance, and was "snubbed" for its pains, whilst the latter body is seemingly either asleep, incapable, or disheartened by the alterations made in its Petition, and the cold reception thereof. If we go to Sir Richard we are snubbed, if we send home, our deputation is courteously bowed out, and if a few write to you, you either give them a flat denial or preserve a cold silence. Will you, sir, refer to the names affixed to the Petition sent home a short time ago, and tell me, does that show that only a few are grumbling, or does it convince you that the trading portion of this community has grumbled, but is now, as I am, disheartened?

Yours truly,
A DISCONTENTED COLONIST.
Hongkong, October 30th, 1868.

New Peers and Knights.

The Sporting Gazette, announces on good authority that the Government intend shortly to recommend the creation of no less than twelve peers. "These honours will, it is believed, be conferred entirely upon the most influential supporters of the Conservative party since the period of Lord Derby's first accession to office, but will not include any at present holding office either in the Cabinet or out of it. The 'twelve' alluded to are expected to receive their coronets about the time of the dissolution." Three knights have just been gazetted—Mr. Andrew Fairbairn, Captain Arrow, and Mr. E. W. Watkin. The first is Mayor of Leeds, and is supposed to have earned the distinction (now-a-days one can hardly call knighthood an honour) by his exertions in getting up the Leeds Art Exhibition. Captain Arrow is the deputy-master of the Trinity house. As for the third, everybody, of course, knows Mr. Watkin; though they may not know exactly for what public services he has been knighted. According to the Yarmouth Bribery Commissioners, he "largely contributed to the corruption" of that borough in 1850, and to "the degradation of the constituency in 1865." His recent exploits in railway management are still fresh in the recollection of the public.

The Hiring of a Nose.

The Revue de Poche gives the following as the terms of the contract by which Hyacinthe has let his celebrated nose to Gil-Perez:—"It is agreed between the undersigned Hyacinthe, dramatic artist and proprietor at Montmartre, of the one part, and Gil Perez, also an artist, and proprietor of a small part of the Isle of Beauty at Nogent, on the other part:—1. M. Hyacinthe lets out and cedes his nose to M. Gil-Perez for the whole term of his engagement, to be employed as emblem, talisman, &c., and for all the requirements of the repertoire. 2. The aforesaid nose is to be placed unreservedly at the disposition of M. Gil-Perez, beginning with the general rehearsals, in order that he may become quite au fait in the handling of the cartilage. 3. At the close of each evening the nose in question is to be carefully placed in a violin case. 4. Gil-Perez is expressly prohibited from making use of the nose at bals masqués, or as an extinguisher. 7. In case the company should proceed to Baden, or elsewhere, M. Perez is to convey the nose at his own expense. It will be competent to him to make use of it as a foot warmer during the journey. 10. In the case of an émeute the said nose must not, under any pretext, be used as a barricade." With these reservations, M. Gil Perez may employ the nose for all the requirements of his art. He may flatten it, cook it, lengthen it, fix rings in it, give it snuff, and, if necessary, sit upon it, without giving M. Hyacinthe a right to complain of these charming frolics."

Difficulty between France and Switzerland.

A correspondent of the Indépendance Belge says that a difficulty has just arisen between the Governments of France and Switzerland, out of a naturalisation case. A Savoyard of the name of Bourgeois has long been settled at Geneva, and was naturalised there before the annexation of Savoy to France. He has a son still a minor, and the French authorities maintain that the naturalisation of the father does not carry with it that of the son, and as the young man has refused to submit himself to the conscription, he has been condemned as refractory. The Federal Council has requested the Swiss Minister in Paris to explain to the French Government that Bourgeois having been naturalised before Savoy was annexed to France he has never been a Frenchman at all, and that his son, being a minor, is in precisely the same position. France cannot, therefore, claim military service from a person in no way belonging to her. It is thought that these explanations will have their due effect. Other cases of difficulty, however, are constantly occurring. The French Government, for instance, claims young men for military service whose fathers were really Frenchmen until they became naturalized as Swiss. "And yet," says the correspondent of the Indépendance Belge, "the bulk of these young men were born in Switzerland, and it seems strange to them that they are to be fettered to a nationality which their fathers repudiated for them, and which they themselves are disposed to repudiate also upon reaching their majority." The Federal Council, desirous of seeing their difficulties put an end to, have charged M. Kern to negotiate on the subject with the Paris Cabinet.

Mexico and the United States.

The New York correspondent of the Daily News, writing on the 19th, says:—"There is talk once more of a protectorate of Mexico. Juarez is at his wit's ends, and reels to and fro; that is to say, 'Anarchy reigns,' and he cannot restore order. There has been rebellion in some parts of the republic ever since Maximilian left; it is no sooner suppressed in one place than it breaks out in another. In fact, everything shows that the social habits—the habits that is, of obeying the law, labouring honestly for a living, and confiding in the pacific intentions of one's neighbours—are almost extinct in Mexico, and nothing but a long period of order and security, maintained by the strong hand of some more vigorous and civilised race, will restore them. It is said that in return for a protectorate and a loan of money, Juarez will consent to a rectification of the southern frontier of the United States. There is little doubt that Grant inclines to such an arrangement, and I do not think it will meet with a very vigorous opposition from any quarter. From Seward, it will doubtless meet with a hearty support. General Kautz, a friend of Grant, and a brother officer when he was serving in a regiment of the line, is going out to Mexico in a week or two for a long visit, ostensibly for pleasure, but I think really for the purpose of spying into the land. What with the negro question, which it has already on its hands, the Mexican question, which it will shortly have on its hands, and the Chinese question, which it will certainly have on its hands if the immigration of Chinamen to the Pacific continues, this Government will, during the next fifty years, have plenty of experience in the art of absorbing or educating inferior races."

The Ice Crop.

The glittering cubes of pure crystal we are accustomed to see on the fishmongers' slabs and in the windows of the Wenham Lake Ice Company are all procured from Norway. A few years since this company procured their supply from Wenham Lake, near Boston, but the expence of freight rendered it so costly that they were obliged to seek for sources nearer home. In the hills situated a few miles from Drobak in Christiana Fjord there is a very pure lake, fed entirely by springs belonging to this company, and from this source all the pure table ice is now supplied. There is a notion that water while in the act of congelation is purged from all foreign matter. This is only partially true. All its mineral salts and any colourable matter it may contain are removed from it, but no organic matter is eliminated in the process. For this reason the clearness of the ice is no test of its purity; many a glittering lump when it dissolves absolutely smells. We state this by way of caution to those who think that the eye is the most perfect test to the purity of this grateful addition to the table. The Wenham Lake Ice Company, when they had satisfied themselves that the piece of water from which they secured their supplies was free from any impurity, not only purchased the lake, but the farms surrounding it, in order to keep it in their own hands and secure it from any deleterious local drainage; and it is from this crystal cup that their translucent crops are gathered year by year. The process of reaping the ice crop is the same in Norway as in America. By the aid of a sharp ice plough the surface is ruled with parallel lines 21in. apart; when the whole surface is marked in one direction, the plough is set to work at right angles. In this manner the whole surface is divided like a chess board into squares 21 inches square and about a foot in depth; the ice saw divides these parallel lines, and by the aid of the ice spade, a sharp wedge-like implement, the squares are split apart with the utmost rapidity.—Times.

Panic at an Agricultural Show.

FALL OF TWO GRAND STANDS.

On Saturday afternoon, September 5, an alarming occurrence took place in the Show ground of the West Riding Agricultural Exhibition, which was being held in Belle-Isle-fields, Wakefield, and at which 20 silver cups and upwards of £400 in money were awarded as prizes. There was a large concourse of people present, in consequence of a brass band contest, and hurdle jumping by ponies and hunters. In order to enable the visitor to have a good view of the jumping, &c., two large grand stands on slanting platforms had been erected, which during the afternoon were thronged with ladies and gentlemen. About three o'clock in the afternoon, when the hurdle jumping was at its height, one of the stands fell, and the occupants were thrown upon each other and some of them were seriously hurt. The panic occasioned by the first fall had scarcely subsided when the other stand, which had been overcrowded by those who were prevented seeing the jumping, also went down. A number of ladies were seriously injured. One young lady, a resident in Wakefield, had her leg broken, whilst an elderly female, also of the same town, was seriously cut about the face. Two serious accidents also occurred with the ponies and their riders. In one case a pony caught the hurdles, and was so seriously injured that it was found it would have to be destroyed. In another instance one of the riders (a little boy) was so seriously injured that he had to be taken off the grounds.

Shocking Murders and Other Crimes.

Highway robberies, assaults on females, ghastly murders are the general topics of conversation at St. Petersburg. The newspapers tell of a most disagreeable rencontre on the part of the British ambassador, who, in driving with his family past a wood near his summer residence at Ligovo, heard cries of distress, and on coming up to the spot from whence they proceeded, found a man with his throat just cut and his hands amputated. The pockets of the poor wretch had been rifled, but owing to the approach of the ambassador the murderers had failed to secure what they were seeking—a promissory note for several thousands of roubles, which was found sewn into the lining of the murdered man's coat.

Another tragical episode has occurred in the same locality. Some burglars broke into the house of an English gentleman, and abstracted plate and jewellery to the value of about £200. A few days after the body of a man with burglar's tools in his pocket was discovered in a haystack at some distance from the seat of the robbery, and, thanks to the sagacity of the police, it was soon ascertained that the corpse was that of one of the burglars, who, having fallen out over their booty, came to blows, which resulted in the death of one of them.

In Moscow, too, the crop of crimes is something very unusual. A shopkeeper was stabbed in seven places standing behind his own counter at one o'clock in the forenoon. The unfortunate man lingered long enough to identify his murderer, who proved to be one of his neighbours. The public are much excited at all these events, few of which appear in print before the guilty parties are brought to trial.

An extensive fire has occurred at St. Petersburg in the chief hemp and flax depôt. Upwards of 100,000 bales of flax and 60,000 bales of hemp have been consumed. The loss is estimated at 314 millions of roubles.—News of the World.

France and Prussia.

The Times observes that, numerically, France can never hope to rival the might of Prussia, especially if this latter can rely on the contingents of her North-German confederates as well as of her South-German allies. If it be true that men who have only been for two or three years under the standards can be no match for veterans who boast of five or six years' service, then, independently of all other physical or moral superiority, the French ought to have the better in the first encounters. But war itself is the best school for warriors, and in any indefinite prolongation of hostilities the mere advantages of barrack apprenticeship vanish before the more valuable qualities of solid raw material. Even when the drill and discipline were equally perfect on both sides, all history teaches us that usually success first set in on the side of French fury, but was apt to veer round in favour of German constancy. It is impossible that considerations of this nature have no weight on the mind of the Emperor Napoleon. War, he must be fully aware, would be for France a game of the most desperate hazard. Still, there would be nothing in war itself half so disastrous as this armed peace, which he seems to have imposed as a normal state both on his own empire and other European States. Even in this reckless competition of military extravagance, however, he is sure to be worsted in the end. It seems incredible that France should not see in the relief accruing to the finances of her rival, even from the temporary dismissal of a part of her forces, a point gained in that war of purses which has hitherto contrived to put off, and may eventually altogether prevent, the war of swords. Thus far it is not he who musters more soldiers, but he who saves more crowns, that has the best of the game. It is not impossible that in the end, and if matters are carried to the worst extremities, he who has saved more crowns may also have it in his power to muster more soldiers.

Fearful Earthquakes in Peru.

Fearful earthquakes happened in Peru and Ecuador on the 13th of August. It is said that from twenty-five to thirty thousand lives were lost, and property destroyed to the amount of £60,000,000. The cities of Arequipa, quique, Moquehua, Pisco, Arica, Tacunga, Ibarra, Tacna, and many others were destroyed.

The huge tidal wave which followed wrecked many vessels, and among others the American strs. Fredonia and Wateree, the Peruvian ship America, and the British ship Chanceller. The Wateree was carried half a mile inland. There was great suffering among the survivors.

Telegrams were subsequently received giving seven days' later news and somewhat modifying the first report. According to these advices, the earthquake had destroyed the town of Arequipa, and Iquique had been submerged. Lima and Tacna had escaped. Although it is believed that there has been some little amount of exaggeration in the news of the earthquakes, no doubt can be entertained that the disaster has been fatally extensive. As regards the destruction of property to the amount of £60,000,000 sterling, the idea appears utterly improbable; South American towns, other than capital cities, admit of easy reconstruction, and whatever loss may really have occurred will probably be found to consist in the produce waiting for transmission from the interior for shipment, or the imported merchandise lying in the warehouses on the coast. Thus, in Arequipa, which is about a hundred miles inland, there may have been stores of alpaca and sheep's wool, bark, &c., while at the port of Iquique 50,000 quintals of nitrate of soda are known to have been destroyed, the worth of which, however, on the spot would be only about £20,000. Of imported merchandise, the loss of which will fall upon the merchants and manufacturers of this and the various other nations whence they were shipped, the greatest destruction will probably have been at the ports of Arica and Islay—cotton and woollen goods being taken at the former, not only for the supply of the Peruvian city of Tacna, but also for the adjoining Republic of Bolivia, while the latter is the port of entry for Arequipa, where there is a population of about 60,000, and about half-a-dozen English and several German mercantile houses of importance. At Iquique, where the population is about 5,000, there are also many foreigners acting as agents or representatives of houses in the nitrate of soda trade. That Arequipa should be the principal point of suffering is in accordance with precedent, since that city has been similarly destroyed four times within the last 300 years. At its last erection, however, it was built with the greatest care to resist the effects of these visitations, and the fact of its total destruction affords evidence of the violence of the present shock. As most of the inhabitants are reported to have escaped, it is possible their safety may have been due to the prevision thus exercised.

The effects of the earthquake appear to have extended over a distance of twelve hundred miles—from Ibarra, a town of Ecuador, fifty miles to the north-north-west of Quito, the capital of that Republic, and within less than a degree of the equatorial line, down to Iquique, a seaport and island in the southern provinces of Peru, in the twentieth degree of south latitude. But Ibarra, Pasco, Moquehua, and Arequipa are inland cities, and stand high among the clusters of those peaks of the double Cordillera, not a few of which are numbered among the most active volcanoes of this earth. Arequipa, the capital of the maritime Peruvian province of the same name, is commanded by the volcano of Misti, a mountain said to exceed the summit of Mont Blanc by four thousand feet.

Letter from Garibaldi.

FLORENCE, Sept. 11.—The assertion of the Patrie that Garibaldi had left Caprera for Naples, with the intention of proceeding thence to ..., is wholly unfounded. He is still at Caprera. His letter to the electors of Ozieri(?) Gallura, announcing the resignation of his seat as deputy to the Italian Parliament, has been published. It is dated the 23rd of August, and states that he resigned from inability to serve the electors. Physical infirmities and the consciousness of being unable to help a generous and abandoned people had kept him from taking part in the proceedings of Parliament. He was grieved that he could not assist them in their immense necessities and afflictions. He would, however, always be ready to lay down his life should the opportunity of being useful to his country occur.

The Malady of the Duke de Brabant.

The following horrible details are given by La Gazette de France of the sufferings of the Prince Royal of Belgium, who it appears has been somewhat relieved by the operation of tapping. Previous to this operation the swelling of the limbs was so great that they presented an awful appearance of deformity; when the poor little sufferer was in a vertical position his legs assumed the shape of Turkish trousers filled with air, and if he lay in a recumbent posture his head swelled like an inflated bag, till it resembled nothing human. The King, who is extremely sensitive, had come to that state of suffering that he could not endure the sight of his child, and he was to be seen wandering in tears over the apartments of the chateau, constantly repairing, however, to the chamber of the dying child, attracted thither by the irresistible power of paternal affection. As to the Queen, she never quits the Prince, except to take her meals and sleep a few hours, some sleep being absolutely necessary to her. If she quits the chateau for an hour, it is only to make a pilgrimage to Notre Dame de Sichem(?). The last telegram informs us that there is no change in his state.

The Premier.

There are signs abroad of another great strategic movement on the part of the Premier. His friends have almost given up the expectation that the country will support the policy of the Ministry in relation to the Irish Church, but they have not relinquished their faith in Mr. Disraeli's power of adapting himself to circumstances. It is whispered that a grand operation is being planned, calculated to outdo the memorable "dishing of the Whigs" in 1867. The expectation derives support from a passage in Sir John Pakington's election address, which seems to have been generally overlooked. He cannot, he says, assist in the destruction of any part of the Established Church, but he is "not, on the other hand, prepared to defend the ecclesiastical condition of Ireland as it now exists." If the subject had been approached in a calm spirit of honest reform, continues the Secretary of War, "we might have arrived—indeed, I trust that we may still arrive—at a satisfactory modification of existing defects." Real Conservatives who remember that the words "compromise" and "modification" used in connection with Reform ended in a Household Suffrage Bill, will not much like the look of this passage. Can it be that Sir John Pakington speaks upon a hint, and that Mr. Disraeli is preparing himself to throw over the Irish Church? If so, the day of St. Michael is near at hand, and another pious manifesto can be conveniently put before an unregenerated world which laughed at Maundy Thursday.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Avenging Murders by Blacks in Australia.

News from Carpentaria announces the murder of Mr. Manson, (once inspector of police in Queensland), with a Chinese companion, by the blacks. How the murder was avenged is related by a correspondent of a Brisbane paper as follows:—"I much regret to state that the blacks have become very troublesome about here lately. Within ten miles of this place they speared and cut steaks from the rumps of several horses. As soon as it was known, the native police, under Sub-Inspector Uhr, went out, and, I am informed, succeeded in shooting upwards of 30 blacks. No sooner was this done than a report came in that Mr. Cannon had been murdered by a black at Liddle and Hetzer's station, near the Norman. Mr. Uhr went off immediately in that direction, and his success I hear, was complete. One mob of 14 he rounded up, another mob of nine, and a last of eight, he succeeded with his troopers in shooting. In the latter lot there was one black who would not die after receiving 18 or 20 bullets, but a trooper speedily put an end to his existence by smashing his skull. In the camp of the last lot of blacks Mr. Uhr found a compass belonging to Mr. Manson, of the Norman, and a revolver belonging to a Chinaman. He then followed the tracks of the sheep Manson and the Chinaman had a short time before passed with, and in a water-hole found the bodies of poor Manson and the Chinaman cut about and mutilated in a most frightful manner. Cannon's body has also been found."—Melbourne Argus.

Bull-Fighting in Spain.

Some interesting statistical details to the tauromachian art have recently been going the rounds of the Spanish papers. It is asserted that the passion for bull-fighting is by no means on the decline in Spain. The following figures will show that the art is flourishing, if not actually on the increase. In 1866 there were 101 bull-rings; of these 36 belonged to the capital towns of provinces and the remaining 65 to places of less importance. The chief towns unprovided with plazas are the Canaries, Corunna, Gerona, Huelva, Leon, Lerida, Lugo, Malaga, Orense, Oviedo, Pontevedra, Tarragona, Viscaya, and Zamora. The provinces which possess the greatest number of bull-rings are those of Badajoz, which owns nine; Cadiz, which owns six; and Huelva, which has five. The finest bull-ring in Spain is that of Valencia, which possesses 16,816 seats; next comes that of Barcelona which has 11,972 seats; and then the chief bull-ring of Madrid, which has 9,786 seats. Although this last ring is not the first size in Spain, it is the first in importance, because therein the bull-fights are more numerous and better than elsewhere in the country. Every Sunday afternoon in Madrid during the season the bull-ring is, as a matter of course, as crowded as the Prado is at night. The total number of bull-fights which were held in Spain in 1861 was 245, while in 1866 the number had increased to 330. But in addition to those first-class funciones every town in the land has its "novillos" or fight with young bulls at the end of the harvest time, and in all the principal cities there exists clubs of amateur bull-fighters. In Malaga, which is without a stone bull ring, the number of these societies is considerable, and there, as well as in Seville, there are amateur performances continually.—Gibraltar Chronicle.

Russia in the East.

The Times observes that what is called the question of Russia in the East, plainly stated, comes to this—Shall we, some day or other, have to fight with Russia for the possession of India? If so, would it be for our advantage to select the time and place for ourselves, to choose our own battle-field, and, perhaps, precipitate the contest before our enemy's preparations are matured? It is thought in India, we are told, that a day may really come when it may be necessary to warn the Russians off Affghanistan—in other words, to inform the Russian Government that the Affghans would receive the support of the British Government against any invaders. But this communication, if it ever were made, would be pretty well superfluous. The Russians must already know that our present policy consists in leaving to them, if they are bent upon aggression, the costly work of crossing Affghanistan, and it would be well understood, without our saying it, that the Affghans would not be left unassisted in their resistance to the enemy. Under these circumstances, if they ever occurred, the battle for India would indeed be fought in Affghanistan, but not in Affghanistan as a province of our Indian Empire. The country would be an independent country attacked from without, and we should be supporting the arms of the nation against a declared foe. The Times is not disposed to make light of the danger of Russian aggression, and is not over-credulous on the subject of Russian forbearance, but come what will, we can gain nothing by precipitating the collision, while we should be almost certain to lose by making further advances to meet the enemy. If the great fight is to be fought out in Affghanistan, we had better have the Affghans as friends than foes, and we should infallibly make them our foes by invading their country. Our true policy lies in vigilance and preparation. At the present moment it may be taken as certain that our only real danger would consist in our rushing to meet an anticipated danger half-way.

Miscellaneous.

It was observed of a celebrated physician that he never said in company, "I drink your health," but "My service to you."

The Figaro says that when her Majesty left the Lyons Railway station for the British Embassy, Lord Lyons followed her in his Brown. What a puzzle for French students of English.

Mr. Rassam at the meeting of the British Association, created quite a sensation by dangling before the assembled philosophers the chains in which his old friend, Theodore, had kept him in durance vile.

A countryman who often called at a certain bishop's, and was always told that his lordship was at his studies and could not be disturbed, at last observed: "I wish the Queen would never make folk bishops who have not finished their studies."

A lady agent, who has been travelling extensively through the interior of Pennsylvania, selling corsets at a remarkably low price, and fitting them on the purchasers, has been discovered to be a man in disguise. He has fitted several thousand young ladies.

A DOUBTFUL EULOGIUM.—An old Aberdeen laird's wife, when other ladies were enriching the tea table with broad descriptions of the vices of their several spouses, said her own "was just a guid, well-tempered, couthy, quiet, innocent, daidlin', drunken body, wi' nae ill practices aboot him!"

MUSURUS PASHA has caused to be constructed, in the Greek church at Arnaoutkeuy(?) on the Bosphorus, a handsome tomb to his late wife, of marble from the Marmora Islands. It is richly ornamented by local artists, and is said to excel any monument of the kind in the Turkish metropolis.

MR. TRAIN.—In the case of Mr. G. F. Train another application was made on the 11th inst. to Mr. Justice George for his release, on the ground that the fiat on which he was arrested had been obtained by "fraud, suppression of material facts, and misrepresentation." After a lengthened argument, Mr. Justice George refused the application.

On the 22nd of July a beefsteak was cooked on Westminster-bridge by the sun. The apparatus consisted of a cigar-box, the inside of which had been blackened and the top closed with three panes of glass, about 1 inch apart. In the course of 20 minutes the steak was done on both sides, whilst a few potatoes were baked around it.

Mr. Charles Dickens has just entered into an engagement for a series of a hundred farewell readings in England for the sum of £8,000.

An Omnibus, drawn by steam power, and containing thirty five persons, has been successfully tried, on the road from the Boulevard Mazas to Nogent-sur-Marne, by way of Vincennes.

General Garibaldi, has written a letter to his constituents stating the reasons which have led him to resign his seat as an Italian deputy. Physical infirmities, and the consciousness of his inability to assist the people, have kept him, he says, from taking part in the proceedings of Parliament. He will, however, always be ready to lay down his life for the country should the opportunity occur.

EXPLOSION AT MALTA.—A terribly fatal explosion has taken place at Valetta, in Malta. Five gunners of the garrison and two Maltese workmen were engaged, under the superintendence of a sergeant of artillery, in "fuzeing" twenty-nine bombs in the drilling-room outside Fort St. Angelo, when one of the shells accidentally exploded. Seven of the party were killed instantaneously, and the other has since died of the injuries he received.

KEPT IN.—A married lady gave a social entertainment to a party of female acquaintances, and while regaling them with accounts of a recent journey, a tremendous thumping was heard proceeding from the garret. "What's that noise?" exclaimed one. "Oh! nothing unusual. Don't be at all alarmed, my dear friends; it's only my husband. You see, he persists in staying out very late every evening, and I thought I would keep him in for once. So I got him to examine an imaginary leak in our roof, and while up there fastened the door; that's all."

Lamentable stories of aggressions by the Indians come from the Far West. Solomon City, a small town in Kansas, is surrounded by savages and filled with refugees; many settlers have been murdered, the women having been subjected to most horrible outrages. On Solomon Creek and Asher Creek, Kansas, the white people are fighting desperately. Governor Crawford, of Kansas, has called out the militia, and an expedition has left Fort Harker to assist the beleaguered settlers. On Spellman's Creek the persons of two women were successively violated by thirty savages; another woman was in the hands of the Indians during five hours.

Madame Victor Hugo was buried on Saturday, August 29, at Villequier, near Caudebec, in Normandy. Her mortal remains were laid beside those of her daughter Leopoldine, who was miserably drowned, with her young husband, 25 years ago, on the 4th September 1843. Victor Hugo was not present at the funeral, as he will not enter France. It was by her express wish that Madame Hugo was laid in the one grave with her daughter. M. Paul Foucher, her brother, the well known dramatist, was the chief mourner.

NEW LINE OF MAIL STEAMERS.—On September 10 the largest of the steamers constructed for the new London, Belgium, Brazil, and River Plate Royal Mail Steamship Company was formally inaugurated at the Victoria Docks. More than ordinary interest attached to the occasion owing to the fact that the Belgian Government has granted a subsidy to the line for the carriage of mails to the countries of South America. The vessel inspected for the first time yesterday is called the City de Rio Janeiro. She is 285 feet long, 33 feet 6 inches broad, and 26 feet deep. Her engines are 300 horse power, and her registered tonnage is 1,600 tons.

THE EMPRESS CHARLOTTE.—The mental derangement of the Empress Charlotte has reassumed an acute form. She is now subject to attacks of furious mania; and, on the authority of her medical attendants, the "beginning of the end" is now so near that telegrams are passing daily between Vienna and Laeken, her place of confinement. "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" was true of the ill-starred empress during her tenure of power; and now that recovery seems more than doubtful, it is hardly humane to hope for the prolongation of a life which has had scarce a gleam of happiness for the last three years.

There are to be eight distinct and defined routes for telegrams between London and Calcutta, through the Continent of Europe—five "Indo-Ottoman," passing into the Government cable at its extremity in Turkish Arabia, and three "Russo-Persian," meeting the cable lower down the Persian Gulf at Bushire. From January 1, 1869, the cost of a single message by any of these will not exceed £5 17s. One of the five Indo-Ottoman lines will be worked under a special convention between France, Austria, Switzerland, Servia, and Turkey; and one of the three "Russo-Persian" lines will be that of Messrs. Siemens Brothers.

The Levant Herald of the 2nd September says:—"The damage done to the Sultan's yacht by an English brig drifting down upon her whilst at anchor off Begierbeg, was finally repaired in the Arsenal during the past week. The cost exceeded £300, but, by special order of his Majesty, the bill was sent to the English captain receipted. The latter—a rough north countryman—had acknowledged his responsibility for the accident, and his agreeable surprise of this act of imperial generosity may therefore be better imagined than described. He has since proceeded on to the Black Sea, with a much improved estimate of the Turks."

A SINGULAR CEREMONY.—The German journals, in announcing how the King of Prussia was to employ each day during his visit to Dresden, stated that, after a review on the 9th, his Majesty was to attend a grand banquet in the ancient hall at the palace at Moritzburg, and they then add:—"King William will have to undergo a singular ceremony on this occasion. In the chateau there exists a cup made of a stag's skull, still adorned with the horns, and deep as an ancient Gothic ridecome. This vessel is filled with champagne, and every guest has to empty it as adroitly as he can—a difficult task, however, in which many a drinker has failed. The King of Saxony, while the guests take their wine, takes notice of their address, and draws up a report of the trial in an antique register, which dates from the first days of the Saxon monarchy. The most illustrious names figure in it, and that of Frederick the Great among others. The Germans, who are fond of pleasantry at times, are curious to know how the conqueror of Sadowa will extricate himself from the difficulty, and whether the misfortune will occur to him, as to many others, of spilling some of the contents on his glorious uniform."

THE CLERKENWELL EXPLOSION.—The suf...ferers by the explosion in Clerkenwell have had no cause to complain of the indifference of Government or the House. Mr. Disraeli's prompt despatch to Clerkenwell on the night of the accident of a confidential agent laden with bags of money will still be fresh in the public recollection. The distribution of the £8,000 voted by the House of Commons now comes as an appropriate sequel to the act. This took place a few days ago. All whose houses and property had been destroyed by the explosion were recognised as claimants, and received a share of the money in proportion to their loss. It is agreeable to learn that they were satisfied with the awards.

WILD BEASTS IN INDIA.—It appears that in the year 1867 the rewards given for the destruction of wild beasts in the four divisions of the Central Provinces amounted to upwards of 11,000 rupees. This outlay represents the slaughter of nearly 3,000 beasts of prey—viz. 932 leopards and panthers, 535 tigers, 475 hyænas, and 1,47 wolves. The greatest amount by far was paid in the Saugor district—viz. 7,135 rupees; and much more than half this sum (4,520 rupees) was for the destruction of wolves (353). The item next in importance is one of 1,250 rupees for the spoils of 86 tigers in the district of Raepore in the Chutteesghurh division. Five of these Raepore tigers are said to have been man-eaters, as were three in Nagpore district, and one at Balaspore. Mention is also made of a man-eating panther, for whose death a reward of 100 rupees was given.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Friday Evening.

There has been quite a languid feeling in the market for Bengal drugs to-day, and the following may be taken as the ruling rates with more sellers than buyers:—Patna, $625 to $626½ cash, and $625 of the 10th Sales to arrive on three weeks' time; Benares, $622½; ...Malwa, $445 to $450.

There is little to report in the other departments of trade, and business has been very slack to-day. There have been a few sales of piece-goods, but they do not call for any special remark. Prize Medal—London, 1851, 1862. Paris, 1867, Oporto, 1865.

The genuine Eau de Cologne invented by my ancestor, in the year 1709, has for a long number of years been patronised by the Royalty, Nobility, and Gentry of England, and all other nations: the success and the reputation which it has acquired by its constant excellent quality have rendered it a great favourite with the general public.

The numerous imitations of my only genuine Eau de Cologne, which are offered generally in an exterior appearance similar to mine, induce me to bring it to the notice of the public, that all bottles containing my genuine Eau de Cologne have affixed to them my trade mark, being a white label and bearing in black the signature and seal of my firm, which is—

Johann Maria Farina, gegenüber dem Jülich's Platz.

(opposite the Jülich's Place.)

My genuine Eau de Cologne may be had of all the principal perfumers and druggists in England, or by applying direct to my undermentioned address in Cologne (Prussia), and I caution against selling imitation of my label and trade mark, both being protected by the High Courts of England and Germany.

FORTY YEARS' USE OF THESE MEDICINES

(Morison's Vegetable Universal Medicines)

By the public has proved their efficacy and virtues, and the truth of Mr. Morison's system as to the cure of disease. Being composed only of vegetable matter or medicinal herbs, they are harmless to the most tender age or weakest frame, under every stage of suffering; the most pleasant in their operation; and the most certain in searching out the root of any complaint. Besides cleansing out the great highway of the body—the bowels—they act copiously on the kidneys, the liver, and the skin. A sense of relief in the whole system is felt very shortly after they have been taken;—the blood flows more evenly, the heart beats more regularly, and sleep is given to those long deprived of it. The medicines consist of three sorts, No. 1 Morison's Pills; No. 2 Morison's Pills. In boxes, at 7½d., 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.; family packets, 11s. each; also the Vegetable Aperient Powders, 1s. 1½d. per box.

MORISON'S UNIVERSAL OINTMENT

is recommended as the best external application in all cases of Wounds, Cutaneous Eruptions, &c. In Pots at 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d. each.

The above Vegetable Universal Medicines are sold by the Hygeian Agents, and all Medicine Vendors.
